On WANX/ch. 46, Jackson 5 And Friends was a pairing of two packages. The Jackson Five cartoon aired Mondays and Fridays while elements of The Fun World Of Hanna-Barbera package ran Tuesdays through Thursdays. Because channel 46 was owned by Pat Robertson's CBN organization, shows and scenes depicting magic or any supernatural stuff was forbidden, so The Funky Phantom was left out. The Perils Of Penelope Pitstop was on Tuesdays, Wacky Races and The Amazing Chan & The Chan Clan aired on alternate Wednesdays, and Dastardly & Muttley In Their Flying Machines aired Thursdays. Similarly on the Fred Flintstone and Friends package, Jeannie and Goober & The Ghost Chasers were omitted and replaced with cartoons from Magilla Gorilla and Peter Potamus.

I probably was the transmitter engineer on duty that day at WCWB.

Even though French-stations were listed in the paper, I chose not to add them because I normally don't speak French.

The WB in Plattsburgh/Burlington was on a low-powered station station called W39AS (which identified themselves on-air as "WWIN"), but they changed their call letters to WBVT-LP (To reflect its WB affiliation) later that year. The WB moved to WFFF Fox44 as a secondary affiliation the following year after UPN picked up the WBVT-LP affiliation from WWBI (which had be the UPN affiliate for the Plattsburgh area since it's launch).

I wish you had added the French stations because I would have loved to have seen what the French people were watching.

I was going to say "What Party Rally with President Truman?", but a quick Google search confirmed your listing. The Liberal Party (active only in NY state) did in fact nominate Truman and actively campaigned for him. They did this for every Democrat between 1944 and 2000 with the exception of Jimmy Carter in 1980 (they went for John Anderson that year). They called it quits in 2002.

Did ABC not have any network programming on Thursdays during their first year of existence? That's an awfully short schedule for a network O&O, even for 1948. Of course, WNBT and WABD weren't much better.

Castleman and Podrazik, in The TV Schedule Book, give this lineup for ABC Thursdays in the fall of 1948:

5:30 Singing Lady (Cartoon Teletales is given as Monday, Wednesday, and Friday; Singing Lady Tuesday and Thursday)

6 PM (Local)

7 PM News And Views

7:15 (Local)

8 PM Fashion Story

8:30 Critic-At-Large

9 PM ABC Feature Film

10 PM (Local)

Club Seven is listed as a Wednesday show, after having aired on Thursdays in the summer of 1948.

Brooks and Marsh note that Fashion Story debuted Nov. 4, 1948, and that Critic-At-Large moved from Wednesday to Thursday in November as well. They also show Film Shorts airing 7:15-8 PM. News And Views had debuted August 11, 1948.

Overall, you're a week ahead of the network.

Where is WOR-TV channel 9?

It signed on a year later, on October 11, 1949.

BOOOO! No listings from 2-6 PM! I want to find out which stations aired Tom & Jerry or Bugs Bunny or Woody Woodpecker in the afternoon... Bummer!

WSFA did not air Letterman? When I moved to Elba, AL in 1990, they did air Letterman until it's cancellation in 1993.

Daytime schedule please?

WBRC apparently didn't carry Nightline.

WDBB and WTTO effectively served as the 2 Independent stations for the Birmingham-Central Alabama Market

DToTheJ: Here are the 3-6 PM schedules (the movies for both stations were still in progress at 2 PM) for WDBB And WTTO (courtesy of the Weekly TV supplement in the Friday, February 8, 1985 edition)

WDBB:

3:00 Flintstones

3:30 Scooby Doo

4:00 Gilligan's Island

4:30 Leave It To Beaver

5:00 Mork And Mindy

5:30 Laverne And Shirley

WTTO:

3:30 Flintstones (yes, apparently 17 and 21 both carried them)

4:00 Scooby Doo (ditto)

Independent Stations were wonderful. Surprised the Fox affiliate, as brief as that affiliation may have been, wasn't carrying Joan Rivers. It ran until October of '88. If that 'Late Show' listing was it, it was running on an hour delay. Odd for a show that represented the flagship network offering at that point.

It is interesting to see the Tonight Show bumped up to 11:05pm on KARE for Cheers at 10:35pm. I don't recall many stations delaying the Tonight Show.

I found out that Cheers won it time slot and KARE 11's late news was a driving force. That the reason how they got away with moving the Tonight Show 30 minutes delay.

they were doing that as late as 99, still not as bad as how Conan was treated in Houston

I believe during this timeframe, in Birmingham, WVTM delayed the Tonight Show by 30 minutes to air syndicated shows after the 10pm late news (usually sitcoms, and I believe one of those was Cheers, when it entered off-net syndication in '87). In the mid-80s, the Milwaukee and Nashville NBC stations deferred the Carson Tonight Show to independents stations in their respective areas.

Meanwhile, as you see with WCCO, there were more and more CBS affiliates (many in major markets not named New York City, Los Angeles, Chicago, and Philadelphia) that avoided airing the network's post-news late-night programming, and we were still another year away from Pat Sajak's talk show debuting (as well as Arsenio Hall's new show, debuting in the same week as Sajak's).

KMBC's two sitcom reruns that delayed Nightline also won their timeslots

Disambiguation: KMSP ran The Real Ghostbusters, and KITN ran Filmation's Ghostbusters.

Thank you for making that distinction

I found out that Cheers won it time slot and KARE 11's late news was a driving force. That the reason how they got away with moving the Tonight Show 30 minutes delay.

It's been my understanding that NBC allowed the Carson tape-delay on KARE because the network couldn't get another Twin Cities station to run Carson at 10:30. I can't speak to the Birmingham situation mentioned in the later post, as I was not aware of WVTM still delaying Carson at that point in time. That being said, I think the number of NBC affiliates that were ever allowed to tape-delay Carson could probably be counted on one hand. I know of four: KARE/Minneapolis, WTMJ/Milwaukee, WVTM/Birmingham (in earlier years), and WTWO/Terre Haute. There might be a few more, but those are the ones I am aware of.

Joan Rivers was no longer hosting by that point. She had left in May, 1987.

KARE even delayed the infamous live Leno after the Cheers finale for the Cheers reruns

Kind of odd that KYW and WCAU were included but not WPVI or any of the Lehigh Valley stations (such as WLVT and WFMZ, which (I think) both get cable carriage in Hazleton, which is in the same county as Wilkes-Barre)

I think WPVI wasn't included because of WNEP's dominance in the region.

They didn't even include WYLN-LP 35 (which was based in Hazleton, PA), which served as the WB affiliate for the Scranton/Wilkes Barre market at the time before becoming an America One affiliate 7 months later (after losing it's WB affiliation to WSWB-TV 38 (occupying the channel formerly held by WOLF-TV whose affiliation (Fox) and call letters moved to Ch. 56)). Despite the fact that it was low-powered (hence the call letters).

Odd that KYW, a CBS O&O, didn't have a 5 pm newscast then. I believe they added one in 1999.

KYW was a disaster for quite a while. Still suffering to a degree.

Hercules on the fox stations I think could be Young Hercules that aired on Fox from 1998-1999. Also surprised that Sunset Beach aired at 8am in the morning.

I was surprised with that too. Y&R at 3pm was also interesting; I've seen it airing at 4pm more often than 3pm.

The listings are Central Time, but Louisville is on Eastern Time. Y&R was on at 4:00 ET in Louisville. The note in WLKY's listings saying that CBS This Morning was left in progress is incorrect. WLKY carried the second hour of CBS This Morning from the live Eastern Time feed. WTVF in Nashville carried the same hour of CBS This Morning, but it was from the Central Time feed, tape-delayed by one hour.

That makes sense now that I look at it. I know CBS This Morning used to let affiliates air select stories from the program during the first hour, allowing affiliates to do 7am local news, with the 8am hour airing in its entirety. Thank you very much for the correction.

Seriously...did KCRG actually run an infomercial at 10:35 p.m. on a weeknight? I'm assuming that wasn't the station's normal programming at that time. Do you happen to know what show KCRG normally aired there?

Yes by looking at the other days of the week I guess they originally replaced a regular show with a paid Program. Normally at 6:30 was the Cosby Show and at 10:35 was normally A Current Affair.

Kind of odd that Fox scheduled Cops in between In Living Color & Married... With Children. Also was KDIN listed? If it was, it was probably listed as IPTV.

Yes channel 11 (PBS) was listed as IPT and Fox aired an extra episode on Sunday but don't know why they scheduled it between a variety show and a sitcom.

F3-10 Mr. Bill's Real Life Adventures

this is outstanding, got any more of this magazine?

I acquired 9 issues...that's right, NINE issues of this magazine a couple months ago from eBay. They date from December 1985 to September 1986. Maybe I won't be so long on the threads next time, but it was a wonderful find.

Satellite TV Week! I haven't heard that name in years.

My uncle in The Dalles had a C/KU set and used to get the magazine. I remember sitting down with it occasionally when we'd be at his place and poring over the satellite chart grid in the centrefold realising just how much there was out there, and wondering what those funny "channel numbers" meant ("G5-12? Yeah, right..."). Well, it was simply the abbreviated satellite name and analogue SCPC transponder, which, depending on your receiver model and how it handled presets, would also show on its front panel (multiplexing DVB wasn't in North America yet, but I think we might have already had MPEG-1 SCPC; maybe we also had Digicipher at the time, I don't remember). But it was certainly unusual compared to the newspaper's local broadcast/cable TV listings magazine section that I had always seen.

Then there were the adverts, especially the ones for the scrambled services like HBO that told you how you could subscribe, and some even showing a "VCRS module" they would send you (Videocipher descrambler, which was a big plastic cage about the size of a large paperback that would slide into a bay in the back of your receiver). What a change when CAM came into being, and the gigantic cartridges were replaced with type-2 PCMCIA.

Unfortunately the magazine couldn't compete with technological change and was ultimately killed off by DBS with its electronic programme guide functionality, and later in-the-clear DVB with its same feature. Fred Meyer's used to carry it and I would sometimes grab a copy as a kid, but that was in its very late years of publication in the mid 90s.

The magazine lasted into the early '00s and of course, DIRECTV/Dish killed it off. No one wanted a 7' dish in the backyard when they could go to Radio Shack and with $200 in tow, purchase an 18" dish on the roof. Voila, 150 channels of TV just like the C-Band dish. But no wild feeds.

As you probably have seen, I also received an issue of OnSat Magazine (similar listings for C-Band) that dated to January 1994. Grid format, unlike STW. They listed the Denver channels, Primetime 24 channels, most general entertainment/religious channels, movie channels, CBC and PBS feeds, and regional sports networks for both the Prime Network and SportsChannel suite of channels.

Do you remember if he ever scanned his way through wild feeds to find shows he wanted before the Portland stations aired them? Like Star Trek: The Next Generation...which aired at 3PM Saturdays on T2-

3. You could watch Siskel & Ebert's early feed on Thursday afternoon and get an early start on which movie you wanted to see in theaters that weekend! And you could watch Wheel of Fortune at 9:30 in the morning on the wild feed and know all the puzzles by the time the Portland station aired it that night. I should send some attachments of that magazine and the Sat TV Week's to you.

Did he also qualify for networks from Denver or was he not allowed to because the translators were close by for Portland? "Network programming is available in all areas where network channels are not clearly received," it said.

I remember going to Walmart in the 90s and seeing the satellite dish tv magazine filled with tv listings for the channels that was not direct tv dish network or primestar.

Early 2000s? Crap, that lasted longer than I imagined. I think I last saw it at Fred's magazine section probably around 1996 or so.

I remember STW trying a grid format kind of around that time to compliment its traditional flat listing, a la TV Guide, but it was short-lived. I imagine with so many transponders it must have either been too cumbersome or too expensive (it would have required more pages than the, what, 80 or so that the regular magazine was?), and would have been flat-out impractical once multiplex services became established.

Do you remember if he ever scanned his way through wild feeds to find shows he wanted before the Portland stations aired them? Like Star Trek: The Next Generation...which aired at 3PM Saturdays on T2-3. You could watch Siskel & Ebert's early feed on Thursday afternoon and get an early start on which movie you wanted to see in theaters that weekend! And you could watch Wheel of Fortune at 9:30 in the morning on the wild feed and know all the puzzles by the time the Portland station aired it that night. I should send some attachments of that magazine and the Sat TV Week's to you.

I think so. He used to tape shows off the feeds sometimes. I had a VHS tape he made for me in 1987 of the CBS broadcasts of "Rudolph", "Garfield Christmas Special" and the Claymation Christmas show (hosted by the two dinosaurs) that came off the feed. Interestingly, I also have that same 1987 broadcast taped by my grandad off KOIN! (In fact, some commercial breaks from that very same broadcast, taped by somebody in California off their local affiliates but with different commercials during local insertions, were up on Youtube last I saw them.) Uncle Roger was pretty active on the early modern Internet (post-ARPANET) and was on a couple newsgroups that dealt with feed tracking. I definitely used to watch the feeds when we'd be at his place. (We used to always go over there for Fourth of July weekends when I was a kid.) I used to also see internal communications (like broadcast notices and press kits) from studios for use by affiliates. It was great fun. You can actually still do that today to some extent with DVB but a lot of the feeds are scrambled.

He also had an old early 80s Uniden C-band unit, with an IF out. One time I connected an antenna to the LNB input and the IF to my shortwave radio (I had a 1980s Panasonic boombox that I found at a yard sale as a kid, and it had an AM/SSB tuner) and monitored telephone calls. This was when NSAT&T Long Lines' aging 2 GHz LM-carrier network already had both feet in the grave, yet there were still a few stations operating and it was an easy catch since he lived directly under a microwave route. I remember recording a cassette tape of it on that boombox but I don't know if I still have it.

I used to pick it up when I worked at a CBS affiliate from 1992-1994. There was a tuneable satellite receiver I got to play with when it wasn't in use otherwise (usually sports play by play and miscellaneous feeds). Plenty of wild feeds, more shopping channels than you can shake a stick at. and Shepherd's Chapel 24/7 on 118 channels. Seeing shows early? Seemingly feeding them from the production company to the network, I could catch a lot of shows early, including the Cheers finally at 6am. Northern Exposure fed at 4am Sunday morning, and Wheel of Fortune and Jeopardy a week early (in case you wanted to memorize the answers). I remember seeing Sam Donaldson sitting at a desk. One time one of the satellites went down and networks were scrambling--and feeding unscrambled programming---I particularly remember an independent French language station which ran mostly U.S. shows and movies dubbed into French, with titles like Tje Blues Brothers, Adam West's Batman, "Docteur Dougie", "Santa Barbara" and more. Always interesting.

Think you were watching TV5Monde, a French network. Or CBFT, which was on Anik in the clear, for many years. Yakima cable actually carried CBC North for a while, complete with news in both English and First Nations/Inuit. Probably not much interest, so they dropped it in the early '90s. And SyndEx.

As you know I'm into the VHS hobby. Last November I received a lot of tapes from an estate cleanout in Moxee that came off the C-Band dish. The couple who passed away used to live north of Tonasket, WA, a very small town near the Canadian border. Several movies were included off ABC and CBS feeds on Telstar with black screen in between breaks, while some were taped off Denver stations. Even found 'The Hot Rock' taped off WSBK, for my first MA find, and an episode of Fishing the West off NESN in 1988. Sometime in the mid-'90s, the recordings switched. They went to Primetime 24 West and all the local recordings came from KOMO, KPIX, and KNBC. Found part of an 11:00 newscast from KOMO taped in 1999 with the late Eric Slocum. They were carried on Spacenet 4, for about five or six years.

One of the CBS movies on T-302 ended, it went to the network ID at 10:58 PT and started rolling the late evening NewsNet package for west coast affiliates to insert into the 11PM news. This included weather graphics and national news stories that had 'natural sound' and snippets of interviews with the important people related to the story. NBC did something similar in between primetime and Johnny Carson and Michael Pannoni uploaded one of those to YouTube recently off a big dish.

Oh and speaking of that 1987 CBS tape you have, I found the last few minutes (all taped over by something else) of a KOIN-taped Rudolph from that year at an estate sale (literally begins with the Misfits waiting for Santa), and then cuts to an entire Muppet Family Christmas from KATU the next night. Sold the tape a long time ago, still have it on DVD.

Think you were watching TV5Monde, a French network. Or CBFT, which was on Anik in the clear, for many years. Yakima cable actually carried CBC North for a while, complete with news in both English and First Nations/Inuik. Probably not much interest, so they dropped it in the early '90s. And SyndEx.

It could well have been Monde, but I seem to remember this French station's branding including channel 9, Montreal. I don't know if Montreal had a channel 9 in the 90s. That was interesting to watch in the control room.

We had our main CBS satellite receiver or switcher go out and CBS had to give us (an everyone else) a feed in the clear for a week or so. That meant the usual regional split for commercial breaks were not able to happen, and we got commercials that weren't for us, such as being in Hellman's territory and getting ads for Best Foods with the same jingle. I believe we got Publix and some others we would have been switched away from. That was interesting.

Channel 10 in Montreal is TVA, CFTM. They used to be called TCTV and carried on Cancom to Anik.

Regional ad splits....you can't count how many tapes of network movies and TV movies I've found that had First Interstate Bank ads on them, plastered over the national feed. West Coast chain of banks, but I wonder what the East Coast feed carried? Citibank or similar?

Did your control room receive cable networks like TBS, ESPN, and others on subscription for the sports director to use for 10 or 11PM news highlights? I assume all these TV stations were able to get clean feeds from Prime Network (and affiliates), the SportsChannel affiliates, HTS, NESN, etc.

Also, what was the split (at the time) between shows coming in on satellite, and syndicated shows coming in mailed on Betacam or S-VHS? 50/50? 75/25? I'm not sure what the distributors were using for non-satellite prints of shows, if it was S-VHS, Betacam or even straight VHS.

It's been a long tome, but I'm almost sure the Montreal station was a "9". Nonetheless, very interesting to see US shows dubbed into French----even the Adam West Batman. (Le-POW!. No the graphic wasn't changed.

Outside of local breaks, I don't know what spots run or ran where when the network split off. We'd be told the show was on T301 Channel 8 (with a backup) but from 8:09-8:13 it'd be switched to T301/channel 12 for a spot set. I couldn't tell you if it was a trade with a bank for a bank, grocery chain for grocery chain. It wasn't only east/west, it could be Chicago only or Winn Dixie's service area (which hurts your regional sales). You could do an add for all of Kroger's regional chains (Fry's, Ralph's, Fred Meyer) but I don't know if they all run at the same time in their various areas. We had CBS; I don't know if we had other networks for sports other than Raycom, which we used for our origination of Purdue Boilermaker basketball. Most often if the sports guy could find a game on the bird in the clear, he'd tape it an excerpt it with credit. (We could see a lot of the NCAA tournament games in the clear from CBS.)

Disney did the same thing with their theme parks. I've found commercial breaks that had a Disneyland commercial on them, and as it ends there's a frame or two from the end of a Walt Disney World commercial. I can see why, as WDW has always been the 'bigger' park of the two and prior to 2001, Disneyland didn't have a second theme park (California Adventure) attached to it. And they were targeting families who wanted their kids to have the Mickey experience but without flying 2,500 miles to FL.

Interesting about seeing a frame of a WDW commercial at the end. Our Chief Engineer had told us that CBS recorded the east coast feed on 2 3/4 inch tapes and fed to the West Coast 3 hours later, so that would mean commercials in the feed. It would be available to rejoin. The classic thing is you don't sell snow tires in Florida or California, so that feed would have to be different.

CBS would also feed advance copies of mini-series for sales purposes, usually 2am Eastern late Friday/early Saturday (I particularly remember the Sinatra mini-series before it aired).

I'm trying to get the last picture done, but here's the Special Feeds Update by Bill Britton taken from my 1994 OnSat magazine. I notice that some weekend shows like Soul Train were fed 5 days in advance (on Monday at 4:30PM PT), but others were fed Thursday or Friday. Seinfeld was fed at 2AM on Wednesday morning (I suppose with the commercials intact? Or just the show?) And Young & The Restless came on Anik E2 at 1:15AM PT...soap fans loved that they could tape it overnight and watch it before CBS aired it. Canadian viewers can still do that because Global is a day ahead of CBS. I'm assuming the Friday night Fox Kids feed was for the longer Saturday morning block. Entertainment Tonight at 12:30PM must have been the live taping being fed. Some of those talk shows like Donahue I think kept their cameras rolling through the commercial breaks on those wild feeds.

Ho-ly-crap. The one that Grandad recorded has "Rudolph" (KOIN) in its entirety followed by the Muppet special (KATU). I assure you that it is not the specific tape that you had, though, since mine is in the cabinet right next to where I am sitting! Did they record the PLUS and Thriftway commercials before the Muppets?

I guess '87 must have been a good year for recording CBS and ABC Christmas specials.

If your disc recorder grabbed the EIA-608 tracks, kick your TV set into text 1 or 2 during the Muppet programme. You know, since I know you like historic TV listings...

Someday, somehow, that 5 1/2-hour or so tape will appear on Archive. I just need to figure out how to get it all into the computer seamlessly, then figure out how to upload the whole potentially 10+ GB mass over this POS slow Commielink DSL.

Old Scotch tape BTW. Cuts from Rudolph at the very end (right as the Rankin-Bass logo comes on) to the start of Muppet Family Christmas, and no local ads prior to the Muppet show. But it contains all the national ads, starting with the Oshkosh B'Gosh one. There are local ads at the 1/2-way mark for Dairy Queen, Dairy Farmers of Oregon, and David Apple doing a KATU weather teaser for the 11:00 news.

Tape was found at an estate sale in May 2019 in Yakima. Two movies taped off IFC in the '00s recorded over anything else. You know, before they went to sitcom reruns and junk.

Often the ABC tapes trigger the CC demonstration text on my screen..."Welcome to this demonstration of Closed Captioned television" and it goes on and on talking about its benefits.

I can't get Text 1 or 2 to work on any ABC tapes, just the CC track on CC-1. If it was a crummy SLP tape, half of it is missing.

Last picture of the feeds BTW. In this one, notice that whoever did Family Feud (Ray Combs) fed the entire week at 2AM on Friday. I am guessing for the next week's episodes. They did the same with Rescue 911 for syndication, Empty Nest, and Wavelength (a short-lived teen newsmagazine). The whole NBC Sunday Movie fed at midnight on Thursday morning (3:00 AM ET), but I did not find the ABC or CBS movies. This particular week (ending with 1/30/94) it was likely canceled due to the impending Super Bowl broadcast, or it was fed for the movie on the following week.

And 'Scramble' didn't mean T2-7 scrambled at that time! It was Randall Cunningham's short-lived game show for children, fed twice during the week.

On Saturday at 4 AM they fed 20/20, likely for the next week's show. So Hugh and Barbara taped episodes 1 week ahead? Interesting...

Pictures from Satellite TV Week to follow if I can find this particular week's issue. I have about eight issues from 1985-86.

There are local ads at the 1/2-way mark for Dairy Queen

...And boy, do I have memories of that particular DQ! Mother and I used to make an habit of going there for sundaes every time we were at the (now sadly long, long gone) Jantzen Beach mall. That, the Rax and the merry-go-round there were probably the most compelling reasons I could come up with for going to Hayden Island as a kid!

I can't get Text 1 or 2 to work on any ABC tapes, just the CC track on CC-1. If it was a crummy SLP tape, half of it is missing.

Odd. Mine is in SLP mode too (albeit on TDK tape) and it has it, so perhaps either the original VCR back in '87 was a piece of crap that must not have recorded them, or your disc recorder didn't pick the text streams up (i.e. recorded them to /dev/null)? The demonstration loop aired on CC2. CC1 is supposed to be the regular programme subtitling.

If that's the case, and disc recorders have tendency to mess up incoming EIA608 data streams from analogue sources, then that's definitely something I'll need to take into account since I need to shop for some equipment to do video transfers with...

Pictures from that September 1986 Satellite TV Week...this should take you back, oldradiotapes!

Huh.... they had grids clear back in '86. So I guess that means the stint in the late '90s must have been an experiment that didn't work out since there were a lot more satellites operating in-the-clear just over a decade or so later. I do remember the rows being a lot more squashed-down than the ones shown in your pictures.

By the way - Westar 1 tp 18 5.58 MHz FTW. That had to have been Environmental (it's SES-3 tp. 22 audio-PID 7522 today). That was definitely a simpler time, before "Music Plus" and FM-squared. But they curiously don't list Foreground Music One even though I'm certain it was on the air by that time. (It started out via satellite in 1985 then migrated to tape, and eventually disc!) Maybe the STW editors just hadn't heard about it yet or they were slow to add it?

That Seeburg "Lifestyle" feed, as I understand, originated from an SABMC2 cabinet at their uplink centre in Raleigh, NC, playing the same records as sent to on-premise clients. (The "Lifestyle" series records, which IIRC replaced the "Basic" library at some point in the '70s, do run sometimes on Denny Hankla's 1000 stream today.) Seeburg satellite was a VERY short-lived service operated by Seeburg Phonograph Company (post-Stern Electronics era) and was only active for a few years in the mid-'80s. It was kind of their last-ditch attempt at keeping the aging 1000 product line something sort-of resembling alive. It ultimately flopped from low subscribership and increasingly dated music, a couple years or so before Seeburg Phono itself croaked in '89. Don't know what "Lifestyle AC" was though. Maybe it was their attempt at a Foreground Music One-like service?

AEI Music bought the uplink facility as surplus for basically pennies on the dollar when Seeburg Phono were liquidated in 1989, and operated their satellite service from there until it was merged with DMX's kit in after the buyout in 2002.

So they started as a satellite service? I thought Muzak began with LP records of instrumentals, then went to tapes and eventually added satellite later.

There were a bunch of in-store music networks on Spacenet 3, tp 18 between 5.2 and 7.4mhz in the '90s according to another C-Band chart I found online. Also a bunch on K2 Ku-Band and Galaxy 4 Ku-Band but they were FM Squared (FM2). I wonder who these stores were? I'd assume Kroger and Safeway were a couple of clients on satellite at that time, maybe some department stores or restaurant chains?

Oh, and BTW, enjoying those old AEI tapes you posted recently to Archive. And since you're knowledgeable with that equipment, curious question: Can you also play Muzak Tones or equivalent 4-track cassettes in an AEI player? I keep seeing them pop up on eBay even though I don't have a player...

So they started as a satellite service? I thought Muzak began with LP records of instrumentals, then went to tapes and eventually added satellite later.

Muzak began as a wired service using their own or leased lines, and when FM could add SCA services, they began distributing their service on local FMs using dedicated SCA receivers. Many local stations created their own background service using their SCA and locally produced music from records.

In fact, in several nations in Latin America in the 60's (Mexico, Chile and Perú being three of them) early FM's ran no commercials and made their money from the SCA service to stores.

The concept of "wired music" was created in the 1920's, and developed nationally in the 30's.

Muzak - Wikipedia

en.wikipedia.org en.wikipedia.org

For many years, starting in the 50's, Muzak produced a lot of its own music, just like Shulke, Bonneville and the group of Independent Beautiful Music stations.

^-- What David said. Muzak did make 33 1/3 RPM vertical electrical transcriptions of music (which do show up on E-Bay quite regularly) for both third-party musicians and by their in-house bands for their own service, which were used for their early broadcasts. Muzak initially broadcast via power lines in New York City (a service called "Wired Radio" which later became Muzak) then started leasing broadcast-grade telephone lines from Ma Bell, which lasted (for the most part) until the late 1950s when cheaper/more efficient/cheaper SCA replaced it pretty much everywhere. They still kept some of their wireline syndication infrastructure in place to directly feed FM stations that weren't running Muzak off reel-to-reel tapes, but their wire-to-subscriber service was dead in the water by the start of the 60s. Then once they began satellite broadcasting in the mid-70s, it killed off tape and wireline syndication entirely (yet, strangely, it would take satellite until 2007 to completely annihilate their remaining SCA service nationwide).

also play Muzak Tones or equivalent 4-track cassettes in an AEI player? I keep seeing them pop up on eBay even though I don't have a player...

Short answer: it depends. Muzak had two different, incompatible Philips cassette systems in place for its run of that format and the later/latter of them was identical of AEI's format.

Long answer:

The main differences are in the track layout and playback speed. Their original format was the horrific kludge that was the CP1600, a dual-deck 1 7/8 or 15/16 IPS switchable machine (the latter was hardly ever used for music) and was the one IIRC databits did an analysis of some years ago on Youtube. This big, heavy, 19" rack-mountable monstrosity played cassette tapes in the forwards direction only, tracks 1 and 2 being on side 1 left and right (when compared to a "normal" cassette, anyways) and 3 and 4 were "side 2" right and left, respectively - I put "side 2" in quotes because there really isn't a "side 1" or "side 2" in 1600-land. In fact if you were to play such a tape on a conventional 2-channel stereo deck then the "side 2" tracks appear both swapped and reversed - they actually (literally) are playing backwards. In other words, think of the way they'd be laid out on a multi-track endless loop tape like a 4-track Fidelipac and that's basically like what you have here. (If you download the unprocessed PCM files of, say, "American Graffiti" or "Rock of the 80s" and analyse them in Audacity you can see this for yourself.) WTF? Well, basically, at the end of each track is a 25 Hz cue tone used to signal the deck to rewind the tape back to the start and to switch to the next track. Not kidding. It actually had to rewind the entire 45-minute (or however long) cartridge just to start the next segment of the programme. Slow, inefficient and actually fairly unreliable, though it didn't stop them from operating the service in that format until they said "enough" and finally started playing with.....

AEI's smaller, simpler, efficient and all around much more elegant Propac 4, which Muzak called the "CP2500". This system is a proper bidirectional 4-track system, albeit running at 1 2/5 IPS (3/4 of the 1 7/8 IPS conventional Philips cassettes and most CP1600 tapes used). The decidedly odd speed was a compromise between runtime and audio quality - high-end response especially benefits from the higher speed afforded by being between half-speed (15/16) and full-speed (1 7/8). This also made it possible to record up to an hour on a single track of a then-common 90-minute cassette (45 minutes per side). 120 minute blanks were available on the market and they could have just as easily designed it as a 1 7/8 machine and used them, though they weren't as common because the thinner tape gave them an odd stigma of being fragile and unreliable. At the very least it did increase the print-through slightly. (Funny. I suppose on some decks they would be problematic, but I used them for years with almost no ill effect, except for a Walkman that would get hungry from time to time and crunch one up... but then, it would do that even with 60 and 90-minute carts, which use thicker tape.) Track layout is side 1 1L 3R and side 2 4L 2R....and yes, there really is a "side 2" in PP4/CP2500. At a minimum, when duplicating to the computer, all you would need to do is play both sides into Audacity, speed-correct them by -25.000% then split them into mono tracks. A lot of them could benefit from an additional slight speed reduction (between -1.75 and -2.5%) because I think they both had mastering equipment that ran too slow, therefore the music always sounds pitched-up. Muzak's version of the Propac, at least initially, differed from the AEI unit cosmetically. Muzak's machine had a slider volume control and 4 LEDs to indicate track (like most 8-track players had) whilst the AEI machine had rotary tone and volume controls and an 8-segment numeric LED display.

So, Muzak published cassettes under the Tones label (and later the generic Muzak label) for both the crappy 1600 and the slicker and cooler Propac. If you have a Propac machine then tapes recorded for the CP2500 will play on it ("Motown III" is in this format - again, grab its unprocessed PCMs and compare it to those of one of the AEI tapes) and vice versa with AEI tapes and a Muzak 2500. In fact later in its run, after 2002, Muzak actually discontinued the 2500 and started distributing surplus AEI Propac machines, ostensibly purchased from DMX, and refitted them with Muzak logo decals where the AEI ones were!

Now, "equivalent" tapes: well, maybe, assuming they're at least recorded at the speed the unit expects (1 2/5). You can actually generate tape-out files for it by speeding your audio up to +33.3% (yes, tyhat's right, 33 and one-third) and compiling them using the 1L3R/4L2R mono track layout, then recording them to a cassette. 25Hz is optional; Muzak's literature claims the 2500 can use it but AEI didn't seem to, at least not in any of the tapes I have. I can't guarantee they'll sound very good, but as proof-of-concept or for experimentation it'd be fine. I think AEI and Muzak actually used to boost the treble response when preparing their masters to compensate for the high-end loss that would have happened running at the lower-than-normal speed; if they did then (to my infection- and 500-800cc motocross engine noise-damaged ears, anyways) it seems to have worked.

There you go.

Correction: The CP2500 had the rotary volume control whilst AEI's unit had the slider. Muzak's also had a membrane keypad for its playback controls whereas the Propac used several red plastic buttons (though it was probably still the same membrane underneath, like most mainstream computer keyboards use). Beyond the cosmetic differences of their front panels, the two functioned exactly the same and would play each other's tapes.

As for wrestling: GWF (Global Wrestling Federation) was satellite-fed, while WWF Superstars/Wrestling Challenge and WCW Worldwide were still sent to stations via FedEx/UPS; but by the mid-'90s starting with Shotgun Saturday Night, WWF/WWE would finally switch to satellite distribution for their syndicated shows.

Vince McMahon was late in transitioning to satellite! I guess the WWF thought that duplicating 175 tapes of that week's Superstars (from the master) and transporting them on UPS next-day mail to the stations, was better than uplinking it at a certain time during the week. I wonder who else did the same? Can't imagine there were many other syndicated shows sent by videotapes in the early-mid '90s. Infomercials, on the other hand, were often sent to stations on tape. I've seen Betacams sold on eBay that had 28:30 infomercials on them with certain 800 numbers on the labels.

Have you seen Ronco syndication tapes on there? (Disclaimer: I've never looked.) Better grab them now if you find one; they're liable to shoot upwards in value on the collector's market soon if they haven't already.....

Somehow, people must have missed this post. I was really looking forward to discussion about the situation with out of market UPN stations in a market as large as Milwaukee.

WCGV lost its UPN affiliation at the start of 1998, due to some contractual disagreements between the network and Sinclair, WCGV's owner. Around that same time, many of Sinclair's UPN-affiliated stations dropped the network, and switched to The WB, while WCGV briefly reverted back to an independent. UPN was back on WCGV before the start of the next TV season.

I'm surprised WMVT wasn't mentioned. You know, the other half of Milwaukee PBS?

NOTE: KPBS is conducting its Membership Week A.K.A. "Public Television Awareness Week"(February 22 through March 3, 1974) so I don't know if the station had another membership pledge campaign in 1973 before the Public Television Awareness Week 1974, because on May 20 through May 24, 1974 the station conducted its very first Auction("KPBS Auction")!!

If anybody knows about this, let me know in the comments please!!

6:30 PM Who's Afraid of Opera?: The Barber of Seville- Opera for the entire family. Rossini's great opera rendered in English, with the London Symphony Orchestra and the great Joan Sutherland. Puppets are used as an off-stage device to describe the plot for children.

7:00 PM Boom, Bust or Break: Even Members of San Diego's financial and business community join Gloria Penner in a discussion of the impact of national politics, the energy crisis, and the economic slowdown on San Diego.

8:00 PM His Royal Snyss (Repeat of Tuesday February 26th, 9:30 PM)

8:30 PM Theater in America (Before named "Great Performances"): Mass

Leonard Bernstein's much acclaimed Mass, commissioned by Mrs. Aristotle Onassis for the inauguration of Washington's John F. Kennedy Center, is performed by singers, dancers and musicians from Yale University for the gala European premiere from the great hall of Vienna Konzerthaus, Vienna, Austria.

10:30 PM Bolero

Artful camera work lends intensity to a performance of Ravel's sensual classic. Zubin Mehta conducts the Los Angeles Philharmonic. The camera takes its cut from the music isolating the flute solo that introduces the piece; moving from musician to musician as the single motif is picked up and repeated; drawing viewers into the center of the orchestra for the driving climax.

KGAN didn't show The Price is Right for Sally Jessy Raphael? I don't recall seeing a CBS station pre-empting The Price is Right, at least not in the 80s and 90s.

I didn't think they did either but that's what was shown in the tv guide. I didn't think any CBS channels Preempts the price is right as they did with some game shows from 9-10am.

What normally aired from 5 to 8?

Not sure since I only had access to that day's listing. The baseball game came from NBC, so I can assume that at least at 6 was to be local news and 6:30 was NBC News. Then prime time access fare at 7 and 7:30.

This comes from the San Diego Union-Tribune, July 2, 1973. Just the day before, ABC moved from XETV/ch. 6 to KCST/ch. 39, the result of a lawsuit KCST filed charging that a station licensed to Mexico cannot air programs from an American TV network (XETV is licensed to Tijuana, MX).

I forgot about this post when the History of UHF Television website went live last Christmas, or I would have posted this then.

The above is sort-of correct, but having researched channel 39's history using Broadcasting and the San Diego Union (the merger with the Evening Tribune didn't take place until 1992), it's slightly backwards and not complete.

KAAR had gone dark concurrent with KEBS/15 signing on June 12, 1967. It was then sold to Bass Brothers Enterprises and returned to the air as KCST February 2, 1968. It was under the Bass ownership that the question of ABC affiliation came up.

When XETV took the ABC affiliation in 1956, it was a necessity due to there being only two television stations licensed in the San Diego market on the U.S. side of the border. That was the basis for the FCC granting ABC permission to transmit their programming across the border to XETV, but the authorization had to be renewed annually. When it came up for renewal in 1968, KCST challenged it at the FCC because they were now the third licensed station in the market on the U.S. side.

Both XETV and ABC fought back, and the battle stretched on until 1971, when an administrative law judge handed down an initial decision favoring the status quo but calling for ABC to be subjected to an annual audit due to claims they had made in their arguments about potential hardship. However, the FCC is not bound to accept an ALJ's decision and in 1972 they declared the XETV affiliation to not be in the public interest, considering the critical point not to be the claimed financial hardships of the network or channel 6 but the reasoning in the original 1956 decision ... channel 39 was now the third station and it was entitled to a network affiliation if it wanted one and no FCC-licensed station had it.

One month before the July, 1972 deadline for ABC to switch the affiliation, XETV and the network filed appeals of the FCC decision, but the decision was upheld by the appellate courts and so the switch took place as described ... a year late and in two parts, as described in the article at the UHF site linked below.

So it was not a lawsuit that made it to federal court, but an appeal of an FCC decision, and the filings were by XETV and ABC, not KCST (which had only filed challenges at the Commission level).

Do you have anything from the fall of 1971 for San Diego?

I do have the Union TV Week section for the week of September 5-11 of that year but it's going to be a real b*tch to transcribe as it is in hard-to-read type. Easier for me to zip up the 14 pages and send it off to you.

Fascinating and enlightening article. Thanks for clearing it up.

As previously noted, I have the first full week of September, and have posted the Sunday listings here:

<http://www.radiodiscussions.com/showthread.php?p=6064502#post6064502>

I will need to do these in multiple posts as the source publication type gives me a headache if I spend too much time all at once with it.

I was wonder if KPBS-TV in San Diego has any pledge nights from 1971-1974, especially because of the 1973 Watergate hearings..

Making myself clear again, I was wondering if anyone had their San Diego Union and other San Diego newspapers(1972 through 1974) on their hands to see if KPBS-TV in San Diego has any pledge nights from 1972-1974 and especially of the 1973 Watergate hearings?

I tried to find some content of KPBS pledge nights on Genealogy Bank between March 16, 1972 through November 30, 1973, but they informed me by Gmail that they don't have holdings for these date ranges(1972-1973)!

I just researched, and found that there were no Watergate hearings for that and the following week due to Senate recess for Independence Day.

After the week of the 4th, the Watergate hearings went on a network rotation. The show Match Game '73 replaced, Hollywood's Talking, ended June 22 so that left the week of the 25th until MG premiered on July 2. I duly recall seeing the hearings on all three networks the week of June 25.

Well I researched onNewspapers.com and I found on a San Francisco newspaper from June 3, 1973 where it said: "MEANWHILE, non-commercial public television has struck a viewing bonanza with Watergate, its biggest attraction since "Forsyte Saga," but costly, at least by Public TV standards: $25,000 to $35,000 a day for gavel-to-gavel coverage. The production unit is National Public Affairs Center for Television (NPACT) at Washington, D.C., which doesn't have that kind of money. But appreciative viewers presumably do. The first two days of hearings harvested 10,000 letters "almost 100 percent favorable," laden with contributions, checks and money orders. Public TV stations around the country Miami, Dallas, etc. initiated Watergate pledge nights." I think KPBS San Diego became one of those stations that initiated Watergate pledge nights too!!

I even found also on the Times-Advocate of Escondido that KPBS is airing The Watergate Hearings only June, July and August and resumed on September through November!

Does anyone have vintage San Diego newspaper ads about Watergate Hearings 1973 featuring KPBS?

Because many PBS stations like KPBS initiated "Watergate Pledge Nights", and I saw in the Los Angeles Times(August 20, 1973) that KCET initiated Pledge nights during the complete prime time coverage of Phase I of the Watergate Hearings has resulted in the noncommercial television station in Los Angeles receiving $105,982 from 4,404 pledges, according to Colin Barraclough, director of development for Channel 28. The 12 pledge nights occurred during June, July and August and collectively represent the most successful membership campaign in the station's nine-year history. KCET's use of the fundraising pledge nights is designed to help defray the station's operating costs which, during the special Watergate broadcasts, were higher due to sign-off time being delayed to conclusion of the coverage.

Pretty decent lineup, though by the start of the 1985-86 season, it would be a whole new daytime for KATN as the PTL Club and two of NBC's soaps would be out and Donahue would finally be in as new owners had taken control of the station (they retained Days of Our Lives while in the case of Another World, Fairbanks would either have to wait 11 more years to see it again -- when KTVF made the big switch from CBS to NBC -- or get someone to tape them from KTUU in Anchorage).

And for those of us in Alaska without satellite or cable, ARCS TV still exists..... comes out of anchorage and is a conglomeration of a few hours a day of all the networks and beamed by satellite to digital translators in villages across the state.

.1 is that conglomeration feed

.2 is PBS

.3 is UATV/First Nations experience

.4 is Juneau360/government tv

Not Retro: Philadelphia, Pennsylvania - August 11, 2021

I thought this would be interesting. Since the new season is about to begin and schedules will change, I thought it would be interesting to "archive" what stations in the Philadelphia area are airing today. Not including subchannels.

Interesting daytime schedules for all three Big 3's at the time. I knew WTVF's lineup was always historically interesting but WKRN and WSMV are just as interesting as well. In the case of WKRN I am surprised that they just didn't air news at 11:30 instead of 12:30. I wonder AMC was a day behind airing at 11:30? Very odd.

Not a clue...anyone have any ideas?

Given the 1998 date of this schedule, I would say quite likely the other.

I think it was maybe Iron Man and Fantastic Four as on KDSM FOX 17 those 2 shows aired every other day like one week Fantastic Four aired Monday Wednesday and Friday while Iron Man aired Tuesday and Thursday then the next week Iron Man aired Monday Wednesday and Friday while Fantastic Four aired Tuesday and Thursday and that was in the 1997-1998 tv season.

Also no PBS! KUHT, KEDT, and/or KLRN are carried on cable depending on location.

Victoria used to be in the San Antonio market years ago.

Pretty sure this was the day networks stopped continuous 9/11 coverage.

Possibly I know that this was the original schedule as the tv guides usually came out around Tuesday of that week.

LMAO I am guessing this schedule @Cool_guy81 was published before 9/11? Because the Emmys did NOT air until November that year, all NFL football was cancelled for that Sunday, and actually I remember Fox pulled Independence Day and actually aired Mrs. Doubtfire instead.

Your probably right as the TV Guides usually came out on Tuesdays during the week.

If anyone wants the Spanish stations listed please let me know.

I would like to see KMAZ Ch. 48 (Telemundo) listed! :)

Anabate123 made a request for a Spanish language station

12:30 Single Guy

I believe this is actually Living Single. I don't believe

The Single Guy ever made it to syndication, at least not broadcast syndication.

I doubled checked the other days in the Guide and you're right, surprised TVG made the error.

For @anabate123 and @classictvfan

Huh? That's weird. Can you post the rest, btw?

@PhillyNewsLover Tamron Hall will finally get cleared here in Amarillo, TX on KCIT Fox 14 because the show hadn't been cleared here for the last 2 years that it's been on the air, only time people got to see the show was that it was on OWN: The Oprah Winfrey Network. And i really thought KVII ABC 7 would have picked up the show when it first started.

Future of Work"? Isn't that the brand new thing PBS started this year?

No KRIS 6.2 (CW) or KDF-TV (Ind)?

No. KRIS 6.2 is a CW+ affiliate, and I've already posted those schedules before. KDF was not listed.

Like I've said in other threads, the reason I don't include a lot of CW listings is because they're CW+ affiliates, which all have the same schedule.

I know, but the Salisbury CW affiliate had additional syndicated programming not usually seen on CW+ stations, plus, what you didn't know is that WMDT produces at 10pm news for it's CW subchannel.

I did know that - I watched it once when visiting the Delmarva.

Retro: Ocala - July 18, 2000

These retro listings come from the Ocala Star-Banner. Some titles are partial due to the paper's grid format.

Boy it's fun reading those! I was a teen during the 70's and the schedules from those independant stations had every program that I loved ;D

((let's face it I just watched too much TV in those days))

March 1976 is where KPBS took place its Membership Campaign (A.K.A. as Festival '76-Second National PBS Membership Pledge Drive) from March 7th through March 21st, 1976!!

Which is stranger, Mission Cable airing reruns of Cronkite or "Mrs. G Goes to College", Molly Berg's followup to the original "Goldbergs"?

"Mary Hartman Mary Hartman" airing in the AM in San Diego is interesting since most stations aired it at night due to content. What other stations did this? Also, though it's not noted in the listings, KTTV's news program after "Mary" was "MetroNews MetroNews" a satirical newscast almost like a proto-"Daily Show".

I was in the 3rd Grade on this day

And did you notice that KGTV 10 DID NOT carry "Somerset" AND Independent XETV 6 didn't carry it either??

Meanwhile (Not surprisingly) KNBC 4 aired it in pattern with the network

Like I said in a different thread, this was the day most networks ended coverage.

I don't know what exactly aired but this was what was listed in the tv guide.

Many of these programs were pre-empted because of the attacks on the previous Tuesday.

Not so much because of the Attacks but because of the ongoing coverage even though radio stations which weren't normally a News/Talk outlet had all dropped coverage on Friday after Bush's speech at Ground Zero (I KNOW KKFN 950 (Now on 104.3 FM with KKSE now occupying AM 950 as Altitude Sports Radio did by carrying its own coverage of the 2001 Stanley Cup Finals (Which the Avalanche won) & Westwood One's coverage of the last Super Bowl which the Broncos were in from February 1999 (KKFN didn't have the local rights to Broncos games as that belonged to KOA 850 as it still does today)

Although many of the Independent & PBS stations aired their normal programming then though

Does anyone happen to know what syndicated programs Foxnet aired on the weekends?

I don't remember Dr. Quinn ever airing in syndication, especially during the week.

I can't tell you anything about Foxnet, but I do remember Dr. Quinn going into syndication. I remember a lot of stations, putting her on in the Early AM/Daytime hours.

It seems odd that no station here was running repeats of ALF. The show was airing in syndication on local stations all across the country at this time. Did no Des Moines station run it?

None of the stations in Des Moines aired ALF in reruns.

KEYT aired Sesame Street because there wasn't a PBS station in Santa Barbara.

I will also clarify that the San Diego-Houston baseball game (ch. 4, 8 PM) was likely a delayed broadcast as archives showed first pitch starting at 8:30 ET.

The channel 12 of Tijuana was affiliated with Spanish International Network that later would be called Univision, until 1990 when the channel was acquired by Televisa

When Did KCET put Translators in Santa Barbara though or Cable access via KCET and KOCE so Santa Barbara can get PBS Programming since so KEYT can stop airing Sesame street.

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/KOCE-TV>

<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/KCET>

K26FT-D no 26 Santa Barbara KCET

K28GY-D no 28 Santa Barbara, etc. KCET

The channel 12 of Tijuana was affiliated with Spanish International Network that later would be called Univision, until 1990 when the channel was acquired by Televisa

Being a seven-year old in the early 60s in Escondido (north of San Diego) and able to get XEWT, I should have remembered that. I plum forgot about SIN.

Remembering great vintage programming on KPBS San Diego during 1973..

I was wondering if the San Diego Union has any issues about information of KPBS Channel 15 membership pledge drives during 1973??,

Because during the Watergate Hearings in 1973 for PBS stations, I heard that they initiated "Watergate Pledge Nights" including KPBS and raised a lot of membership pledges, and I saw in the Los Angeles Times(August 20, 1973) that KCET 28 initiated Pledge nights during the complete prime time coverage of Phase I of the Watergate Hearings has resulted in the noncommercial television station in Los Angeles receiving $105,982 from 4,404 pledges, according to Colin Barraclough, director of development for Channel 28. The 12 pledge nights occurred during June, July and August and collectively represent the most successful membership campaign in the station's nine-year history. KCET's use of the fundraising pledge nights is designed to help defray the station's operating costs which, during the special Watergate broadcasts, were higher due to sign-off time being delayed to conclusion of the coverage.

So don't know if KPBS San Diego initiated "Watergate Pledge Nights" too, because in early 1973 it had 7,300 members, and by November/December 1973 it now has 10,000 members(It came from membership campaigns/pledge nights) and according John Summerfield(former KPBS general manager), he hopes for 15,000 members by 1974 because he resigned the station as general manager on December 15, 1973 before Paul Steen became the station's third general manager in 1974 through 1992.

Any questions or concerns are sincerely welcome.. Thank You

It was fairly common back then for non-PBS stations in less-than-major markets to air Sesame Street and perhaps other iconic PBS kids shows like Mister Rogers' Neighborhood, The Electric Company, and Zoom. KJEO Ch. 47 (then ABC, now CBS as KGPE) in Fresno also aired Sesame Street at the time.

Regarding the NBC Hollywood Squares (10:30 am) panel roster, Wally Cox had already died the previous February 15. It should be Karen Valentine instead.

Correct. Force of habit made me type in Cox's name. The listing from the Times-Union clearly shows Karen Valentine.

What's with all these Not Retro schedules?

I don't understand why people keep posting these current schedules here. I thought this was supposed to be for Retro Schedules. I'm just saying because current schedules you can pretty much find anywhere, such as Zap2It, where a lot of you are getting these current schedules. So what's the point of posting them here?

Fair question

I'm guessing so years down the road people can look back and see what was on as you cant get old tv guides or anything to see what use to be on.

I don't understand why people keep posting these current schedules here. I thought this was supposed to be for Retro Schedules. I'm just saying because current schedules you can pretty much find anywhere, such as Zap2It, where a lot of you are getting these current schedules. So what's the point of posting them here?

To be fair, the description of this subforum is "Discuss retro and current TV Schedules".

Also, I agree with what @Cool_guy81 said. This was the description of the original Not Retro schedule (from yours truly):

I thought this would be interesting. Since the new season is about to begin and schedules will change, I thought it would be interesting to "archive" what stations in the Philadelphia area are airing today.

There are already some differences between the current schedules and the schedule then, even though it was only about a month ago. I would've probably forgotten most of the differences already, so I think it's interesting to archive these current schedules. Eventually they won't be on Zap2it, obviously.

This entire section needs to be divided into several categories - at least three.

Golden Age of TV (pre-1970)

'70s and '80s

'90s, '00s, and Today

I just ignore going past this area now as the schedules from early 2021, 2020 and the '10s have been totally redundant.

I'm guessing with the advancement of sites like Newspapers.com on adding tons of archived newspaper listings, this area doesn't get a lot of activity anymore.

The issue, as I see it, is that "NOT RETRO" schedules come up in a search of RETRO schedules. Otherwise, I really wouldn't mind.

I agree the Not Retro ones might need their it's own file. I don't even see too many retro schedules even getting posted anymore aside from 10 pages of daily Iowa schedules.

I second agree!

The show WKFT ran at 8am wasn't He-Man and the Masters of the Universe, but its sequel series The New Adventures of He-Man.

Why is WYED airing a Chicago/Baltimore baseball game? Neither team is anywhere near the Carolinas.

Notice a ton of old or obscure shows for a large market in 1991. Has the Raleigh market always been a good market for older shows? And who knew "Bridget Loves Bernie" got syndicated?

Did the "Andy Griffith" shows include the color episodes? I remember KIMA Yakima (my hometown station) airing them, but now the B&W seem to be the only ones aired.

Yeah, they had the color episodes too. I've noticed that the Sundance Channel carries TAGS but no color episodes, MeTV only airs the color episodes for the Month of Mayberry special and I think there might have been a Christmas episode in color that usually gets aired at the appropriate time of the season.

Raleigh-Durham is part of the Orioles territory, yet Spectrum still doesn't carry MASN.

According to Wikipedia, KXGN was the country's last dual affiliate station until it switched to digital in 2009.

And if you're wondering, the wonders of digital make KXGN's production much better than you'd think

While the title says it was from KXGN-DT2 its just a copy of the news from KULR Billings

KXGN has no local newscast anymore (hasnt since 2015). Newscasts on KXGN CBS are from KTVQ Billings (noon, 5:30 and 10pm weekdays, possibly 5:30 on weekends due to sports, and 10pm nightly)

KXGN still airs CBS programming on the East Coast feed for much of the day. (Looking at the lineup, I think they technically take the Central Time zone feed when it's available, such as for CBS Mornings.)

That means prime time runs from 6-9 PM and they have syndicated programming from 9P-10P.

Before the switch to digital, they typically aired the third hour of NBC prime from 9P-10P. (There had to be exceptions when NBC had a movie or some other show that started before 9PM.)

Now this is true local --- even "hyper-local" --- television! Something like this is the closest thing to what the FCC originally envisioned by doing channel allocations all throughout the US, rather than clustering everything into (mainly) metro markets. I don't think it was in the original plan, for, let's say, stations licensed to Belmont, Kannapolis, and Rock Hill, to become de facto Charlotte stations. Way back when, Camden SC had a UHF allocation, and 30 miles out from center city, it is a very different world from Columbia.

I'm reminded a little bit of WHKY-14 in Hickory NC, they do a nightly local newscast, they are part of the Charlotte market, yet their news concentrates on the "Unifour" four-county region around Hickory. It's nothing fancy, nothing slick, but it is "local" news, in perhaps its purest form. Here's a sample (I couldn't find entire newscasts):

The cable-only channel EKB-TV in Pikeville KY also does a good job along these lines. They have changed hands and became "Mountain Top Media", but I'm pretty sure they still do the news program, and at one time (may still) they repeated WLEX-18 news from Lexington. Good product, professionally done, nothing fancy, but provides decent local news coverage.

[/quote]

Wow. The show was a one-season show in 1974-75. Seems odd that WCBS would air this four years later.

Apparently, WCBS put that show up in this time slot in place of Bonkers! (the British-produced comedy show hosted by The Hudson Brothers and featuring legendary British comedian Bob Monkhouse as a regular, and on which Karen Valentine was to be a guest on this night, based on TV Guide - the switch was mentioned in the New York papers), the latter of which was shunted to late Saturday night/early Sunday morning after the early morning slides-only newscasts and before The Late Show II for the remainder of the time it was on.

However, it underscores why I cite multiple sources for TV listings, because newspaper listings would be more updated than what TV Guide had on many occasions. Which would put me ahead of some other posters who don't even cite one source.

Channel 68 was an interesting station. The station was put on the air by Blonder-Tongue Broadcasting which basically used it to help develop UHF antennas, just like channel 31 was owned by the FCC (WUHF) and was on the air to help them ascertain the viability of UHF. The FCC sold it to NYC for a dollar. Years later, Rudy Giuliani's office (mayor) sold it for something in the area of $200 million. Channel 68 was in a house on Eagle Rock Avenue in West Orange, NJ next to a bowling alley. Not sure if they were just trying to be cost-effective or could not afford programming or the three network o & o's and 5, 9, 11 had locked up all the decent reruns. 68 began its life as WBTV-TV, then WTVG and finally WWHT (for Wometco Home Theater, the over the air subscription TV service that aired on 68). The offerings on 68 were varied but low-budget and the director/technical director Jim Pichitino used music when the station id's were recorded because they were recorded in the control room, which was noisy. There was the stock market programming, allegedly because Gene Inger invested in 68; a program about entertainment on Broadway with a couple people who read Broadway and off-Broadway offerings from binders on camera. My favorite offering was from Uncle Floyd Vivino, whose brothers were members of Conan O'Brien's in-studio band and who harkened back to the kids' show offerings of days gone by. One day I was home from school and happened to watch the stock programming (featuring Bob Fassbender and Judy Bishop) and saw Floyd Vivino wearing a suit and tie and no hat reading stock news.

I noticed in WLIW 21's 11:15 am listing "Soup Bag" was actually "The Song Bag".

Cannot remember (I was in high school) but when Metromedia existed and owned channel 5 (by the way, they were in the same East 67th street "telecenter" that they started in when channel 5 was owned by Dumont and the call letters were WABD and it was the flagship of the Dumont Network. I believe one of the older Soupy Sales efforts shows him on a ladder rearranging the letters on what looks like a theater marquee outside the studio?) Anyway, channel 5 prior to FOX ownership used to run Edgar Kennedy shorts overnight. Edgar Kennedy was the master of the "slow burn"...

In the early 90's, WCBS' relay channel returned to the air as low-power W53AA, mostly ethnic.

Also, I believe WABC's relay was channel 66, though it may not have been active at this point.

W53AA was a Korean TV channel in 1993.

The MLB players strike that year started five days later from this date, on June 12th, and lasted 50 days. After the strike, they went to the split-season format...1981 was the last time the Yankees made the playoffs again until the mid-90s.

Did they have a All-Star Game that year?

Yes, about a week after the strike ended. IIRC, all the teams played a few exhibition games, then the All-Star Game was played -- in late July -- and the regular season restarted around Aug. 1.

WCBS 2/53-CBS New York

9:00 Tony Awards (hosts Ellen Burstyn and Richard Chamberlain)

The entire 1981 Tony Awards broadcast (except commercials) has been posted on YouTube:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=mEbjt1hSzl>

At least there was a world series that year unlike the 1994-95 strike which cancelled the world series that year.

Yes, about a week after the strike ended. IIRC, all the teams played a few exhibition games, then the All-Star Game was played -- in late July -- and the regular season restarted around Aug. 1.

ASG was played August 9, season re-started the 10th; I believe the strike officially ended on the 1st, teams played a few exhibitions for a week.

Do you have listings from Saturday June 6, 1981 as well?

When I was in high school, the Spanish-programmed stations apparently did not have enough original content or program inventory, so they signed on at 12 noon or 4 and aired a lot of dubbed programs. I remember "Los Tres Chiflados" technically the three jokers (The Three Stooges) and I remember I Dream of Jeannie was dubbed as well. This was on WNJU-TV. Both 41 WXTV and WNJU 47 gave as their city of license Newark, NJ but technically WNJU was located in Linden and WXTV was Paterson. The FCC is a lot more forgiving now. The double city mention included the studio location and transmitter location I believe.

Considering that XETV's a Mexican station, I believe that these soaps are Televisa's novelas, dubbed into English.

I believe you are right, although the only one of the three that also aired on XEWT was Ricos Tambien Lloran (The Rich Also Cry) at 11:30pm. (The only other telenovela on XEWT was Rojo Vivo -- which translates as "Red Hot" -- at 3:45pm.)

I don't recall these running in any other markets; I wonder if this was a trial run by Televisa by leasing the block of time from XETV?<P ID="signature">_____

First, I thought XETV (or its tranny and license) was owned by Televisa or XEWT (unless the latter was a Televisa-owned station).

Second, the only other place that I saw a dubbed Televisa novela was on the defunct Channel America network -- don't remember the title, but it was clearly dubbed, and the English-language credits had a Televisa logo at the end.

Thirdly, I think the reason the novelas were on XETV was partly due to Mexican content laws imposed on the station by the Mexican broadcasting authorities. These days, in addition to answering to the FCC proving that they serve the public interest of San Diego, XETV still has to answer to the Mexican government on the same issue, but to the Mexican government. The result -- Mexican PSAs on XETV. I don't know if the Mexicans still have a Mexican content law (if they had one to begin with), or if they're more lenient with XETV.

The website for the Secretaria de Comunicaciones y Transportes (which is the FCC's counterpart in Mexico) is offline, so I can't check, but I don't believe Televisa owns XETV.<P

What? No Joker's Wild or Tic Tac Dough in SD then? What gives? What did SD stations have against the two shows and Jack Barry and Wink Martindale? I believe 39 had TJW and TTD at one time and I know XETV had the Barry & Enright show Bullseye with Jim Lange in 1980-82. And I know nowadays , NBC 39 has Wheel and Jeopardy!

At least KGTV had repeats of Match Game (1979-82 episodes) and the Jim Perry Card Sharks that aired on NBC from 1978-81.

Did the cable outlets in San Diego carry KHJ-TV (now KCAL) or KCOP so that viewers could get their Joker's Wild and Tic Tac Dough at the time of this schedule?

Please tell me if TJW and TTD ever came back to SD TV in the Fall of 1983.

April 1983 is the month after KPBS San Diego concluded its Festival '83 (March 1983 Membership Campaign) from March 5, 1983 through March 20, 1983, See How Great TV Can Be!!

Very decent lineup for early 1989...but unless if you had two VCR's back then, setting them to record the WWOR cartoon block on one (from 2:00 to 5:00 am) and Jem and Bozo from WGN on the other (from 3:30 to 5:00) before going to bed be would be a problem.

I'm surprised the Anchorage or Seattle stations weren't imported (even partially so cable viewers could see what the two Fairbanks stations pre-empted) on cable. Also, Jeopardy! wasn't seen at all in Fairbanks, but both network and syndicated Wheel were carried!

Or the Vancouver stations(as relatively close to Vancouver as Fairbanks was).

Actually, Jeopardy! finally hit Fairbanks in 1994; prior to that, Super Jeopardy! on KATN and ABC in the summer of 1990 was their only fix.

Not sure that I understand what WISC is doing with Merv Griffin, which was on CBS from 10:30 to midnight. Even if WISC joined Merv in progress at 11, the show still should have gone till midnight. Did WISC leave Merv in progress?

I goofed with that schedule. I'll fix it. Thanks for pointing that out. It should say the Rifleman at 12 midnight.

I wish this site would allow us to edit what we've put up there.

CORRECTION: WISC's listing of Gunsmoke at the very botton should be at 12 midnght, NOT 11:45 which I misread.

SOURCE: Wisconsin State Journal via newspapers.com

I meant The Rifleman, not Gunsmoke.

Merv had a 45 minute edit? I remember 60 and 90 min versions

Did the State Journal's TV insert at the time also carry out of market stations (e.g., Milwaukee, Rockford, Wausau)?

Yes, they did, along with Green Bay, Davenport, La Crosse, Fond du Lac, and Dubuque. Oddly, there is only one Rockford station listed (WREX 13), considering their fairly close proximity. However, I chose only the Madison stations for my listings since that's where I was living then, and less work with that.

WLYH Ch. 15 (Harrisburg) now operates as WXBW and is affiliated with the five-year old TBD (To Be Discovered) network. Also, WDVM (formerly WHAG) is the former callsign of WUSA Ch. 9 (Washington) from 1978-86.

Washington (now West Virginia for the Hagerstown station)

District of Columbia

Virginia

Maryland

As I recall, that was the day CBS switched times for Mighty Mouse and Hey Vern, It's Ernest! which is why WBAL has Mighty Mouse twice (the first at 7 AM being a week delay, which is what WAGA in Atlanta did as well). The switch lasted about six weeks then CBS put them back where they started the season.

Do you have the Sunday listings as well?

Actually WHAG/WDVM is an independent station now

Independent since 2019.

Just curious - why do you see me do a schedule and then post schedules for every nearby city?

It's because I want it to be inspired by the regional TV Guide editions where the city for that day you post is from.

I get that, but there are a lot of other cities you could post schedules for. It's a lot more original.
